6G LMS American Education Week Essay

John Lubbock is quoted as saying, "The important thing is not so much that every child should be taught, as that every child should have the desire to learn." Mrs. Rider is a teacher from the school district who has inspired me to achieve in school. She has inspired me to learn and be a better student. Mrs. Rider is my third grade North Dickinson Elementary school teacher. I have felt that because of her being so supportive and kind to all of her students that I have become a better student. Even outside of school I have thought of her expectations and the examples she led with while teaching and I have thought of always going beyond her expectations.

An example for Mrs. Riders inspiration is that even though students have had tough times in school, she has taught everyone to stand up for yourself. She has stood up to so many students because of things they have done or have even said to others. Mrs. Rider is such an inspiring person. She is so kind and very fair. She is always willing to help others including myself. One example of this is a time a student stole an item from my desk and I went to Mrs. Rider and she confirmed that the item was stolen and even though it was hard to confront that student I knew she would handle it well and fair. Mrs. Rider kept this situation in the classroom and she gave the other student a chance to fix what they had done wrong which was very fair to me and the other student. That is an example of how she is a fair person.

Mrs. Rider is a very encouraging person. She has always encouraged me to try even though sometimes I was stuck. She encouraged everyone to do their best even if they are struggling. A time of her encouragement is when I was stuck and frustrated on my work and she helped me by her saying encouraging words like “you can do it” or “you got this”. I have never forgotten how much of an encouraging person she is. I have taken those words and applied them to other parts of my life beyond school.

Mrs. Rider is such an amazing and giving person. An example of this is at the end of the year she had bought a whole bunch of sweets and she also took the time to type out rewards that went with the names of these candies. She had a mini ceremony in our classroom and she called each student up to her in front of the class and she explained each meaning of the student to the candy. I was given a dove chocolate because she said I was the class dove because I was peaceful and honest. It made me feel very special. Mrs. Rider is always willing to help. When students needed assistance she was always there to help. I will never forget how much she has encouraged me to achieve in school.

Mrs. Rider has inspired me so much to learn. She is helpful, kind, giving, fair, and always inspiring. I have had such an amazing experience in her class because she is so inspiring and very encouraging to any student who has walked into her classroom. She has helped deal with situations between students in class and individually helps students. Mrs. Rider is the teacher I chose because she is the teacher who has inspired me to do better and achieve in school. She is the teacher who I felt is always helping students be encouraged. Mrs. Rider is the one who inspires me and encourages me to do better.
